Boise River

Boise River

A photograph of the Spokane River showing a large, swirling oil spill. The spill is a complex, marbled pattern of white, grey, and greenish-brown, covering a significant portion of the river's surface. In the background, there is a white industrial building with a chain-link fence, a small pink building, and a forested hillside. A red buoy is visible in the water. The text "Spokane River" is overlaid on the right side of the image.
